1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. § 121:

I. Claims 1-15 are drawn to a method of inducing immune tolerance to a protein, classified in Class 424, subclass 810.

II. Claim 16-25 are drawn to a method of facilitating entry of a molecule into a cell, classified in Class 435, subclass 375.

III. Claims 26 is drawn to a method of treating HIV infection, classified in Class 514, subclass 2.

IV. Claims 27-31 are drawn to a conjugate, classified in Class 536, subclass 23.

2. The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reason.

3. Inventions II and IV are related as product and process of use. The inventions can be shown to be distinct if either or both of the following can be shown: (1) the process for using the product as claimed can be practiced with another materially different product or (2) the product as claimed can be used in a materially different process of using that product (MPEP § 806.05(h)). In the instant case the conjugate as claimed can be used in a materially different process such as an immunogen for producing antibodies which bind said product.

3. The conjugate of Group IV is not used in the method of Groups I or III. Therefore they are novel and unobvious in view of each other and are patentably distinct.

4. Inventions I-III are different methods which use different ingredients to achieve different goals. Invention I is drawn to a method of inducing immune tolerance, while invention II is drawn to a method of facilitating entry of a molecule into a cell, and invention III is drawn to a method of treating HIV infection. Therefore they are novel and unobvious in view of each other and are patentably distinct.

5. Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and the search required for any group from Groups I-IV are not required for any other group from Groups I-IV and Groups I-IV have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification and divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper.

6. If applicant elects invention I, the following species election is required.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention.

The method which uses one of the particular receptors recited in claims 8-14 (eg. TSH receptor, etc).

These receptors are functionally and chemically distinct.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

7. If applicant elects invention II, the following species election is required.

This application contains claims directed to the following patentably distinct species of the claimed invention.

The method which uses a protein or nucleic acid.

These molecules are functionally and chemically distinct.

Applicant is required under 35 U.S.C. 121 to elect a single disclosed species for prosecution on the merits to which the claims shall be restricted if no generic claim is finally held to be allowable.

8. Applicant is advised that a reply to this requirement must include an identification of the species that is elected consonant with this requirement, and a listing of all claims readable thereon, including any claims subsequently added. An argument that a claim is allowable or that all claims are generic is considered nonresponsive unless accompanied by an election.

Upon the allowance of a generic claim, applicant will be entitled to consideration of claims to additional species which are written in dependent form or otherwise include all the limitations of an allowed generic claim as provided by 37 CFR 1.141. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which are readable upon the elected species. MPEP § 809.02(a).

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the species are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the species to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.

Applicant is advised that the response to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement be traversed.
